

Top 10 reasons to own your own poker table

<http://www.GetaPokerTable.com>

www.GetaPokerTable.com

Table of Contents

| | |
|---|----------|
| 1. You are the person and host everyone is waiting for..... | 3 |
| 2. You control when & where poker will be played..... | 3 |
| 3. You get to show everyone a great time..... | 3 |
| 4. You can help teach other people the game (if you want)..... | 3 |
| 5. You will hold a higher role with everyone..... | 4 |
| 6. You will own the finest poker table anyone knows about in the area.. | 4 |
| 7. You get to learn a larger amount of poker knowledge..... | 4 |
| 8. You become everyone's new best friend..... | 5 |
| 9. You will become wealthy..... | 5 |
| 10. You will be free to do almost anything you want..... | 5 |
| MORE INFORMATION..... | 6 |

1. You are the person and host everyone is waiting for

Once it becomes Friday and Saturday night many people will be looking for their plans for the evening. Some will want to go out and some stay in. Either way coming over for poker will be their best option. You will let them get out of their house but yet feel at home in the comfort of your company and home.

2. You control when and where poker will be played

Unlike when you are trying to make plans but yet the plans were already made, now you are the one letting everyone know when the evening will begin. You do not have to change your day to fit into the lifestyle of everyone else. You will be able to show appreciation for everyone and yet get the exact plan you originally wanted.

3. You get to show everyone a great time

Now with all of your family, friends, colleagues, or whoever you have come over to play, you get to create all the festivities so that everyone has a blast. You can start finding out and planning what everyone wants to eat and what kind of music they like. You will be able to accommodate almost everyone's choices so that everyone including yourself has an amazing time.

4. You can help teach other people the game (if you want)

The difference between occasionally going to play poker and having your own table is that you get to play more often and at your own leisure. Instead of only getting to play when a game is happening, you can decide when the game will take place. With the new knowledge you are creating you can even start to pass some of the basic information on so your guests feel closer to the game. Just remember if you share everything you learn it might be tougher.

5. You will hold a higher role with everyone

Once people start getting use to coming over to your house for all of the great entertainment they are not going to want to stop. Just keep providing them the same great atmosphere each time and they are bound to return. People love a consistent good time. You are now the important person in the group.

6. You will own the finest poker table anyone knows about in the area

When people purchase a poker table most will end up getting just enough to be called a poker table. That means you can play on it but it does not look great, its very small, and you can't slide cards on the "felt" well. When other people are caught thinking about how much fun it would be to play poker and own a table, you are the entrepreneur and go-getter that actually takes the actions. You decided to get the best table you can at a more than affordable price. You wanted to reach your next goal in life and are now ready to pursue it.

7. You get to learn a larger amount of poker knowledge

As the host of almost every poker game, you are going to be around the action more and more. Even if you did not feel like playing one evening, chances are you are going to at least be watching some of the action. This is a great way to learn the more intricate details of the game of poker and also a great way to start learning even more about your somewhat common opponent's strategies. It can actually be beneficial to watch and learn sometimes.

8. You become everyone's new best friend

"So what are you thinking about doing tonight?"

"Its chips and queso night over at (insert your name) house. I'm going to go play some poker and eat some free food!"

As people start getting use to your gatherings they will start to expect them and be waiting for them. If all it costs is a couple bags of chips and some queso, or any other idea you have, to get people excited about losing their money you have a great thing going.

9. You will become wealthy

The most important and unquestionably best reason to have your own poker table is that you will be able to start taking money away from happy people. You will not be missing any of the action.

Since you can host any type game you want you can always appeal to your guests which keeps them coming back, a bonus for both of you.

10. You will be free to do almost anything you want

With all the extra money and fame coming with your new poker table, you are now free to spend more of your free time in whatever way you like. If you want to go out you now have the money. If you want to just relax and get a movie and order some food you have the money. If you wanted to take someone out on a date or just buy them a nice gift you now have the money. The list can go on and on. For each person it will be slightly different but you get the idea.

MORE INFORMATION

Kevin Lush, the author as written about through GetaPokerTable, has done extensive research on the topic at hand and is now willing to let each and every one of you see what he has discovered. This information is beyond what many people know and should be used as exceptional knowledge of the topic.

Please go take a look at everything he has to share with you by clicking the link below so you can start the journey to become the very next Poker King.

<http://www.GetaPokerTable.com>